

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN JONES.

The death of Mrs. John Jones, Sunday last, at her home, 43 Ray street, removed another popular personage from our rapidly decreasing set of old inhabitants. Mrs. Jones, prominent always by reason of her husband's successful business career and her own charming personality, was loved and admired by every one. She was the widow of John Jones, the foremost colored business man in Illinois, in its early days. She reached the ripe age of 89 years with the full possession of all her faculties. She was born in Tennessee and came to Chicago with her husband about sixty years ago. The death of Mr. Lloyd G. Wheeler recently removed from this mundane sphere the head of another branch of the well-known Jones family.
